

New Autism Parent Support Group

Pathways Developmental Learning Center

Unlock your child's potential through a new generation of developmental therapies...

Pathways Developmental Learning Center is excited to announce a new support group for parents of children with autism and other special needs. Please join us at our monthly meetings to learn concrete strategies for developing your child's ability to self-regulate, communicate and think in a flexible and creative manner. If you have questions about how to maximize your child's potential please RSVP to attend. Parents are encouraged to attend together.

FUTURE TOPICS:

- Parents as promoters of cognitive growth—the role of parent-child interaction in autism remediation
- The importance of nonverbal communication in ASD and how to develop it in daily routines
- Neurodevelopmental Foundations of higher-level cognitive processes: your body impacts your brain and vice-versa!
- Gentle Enhancement® - Stressed Systems do not get better! (This includes parents too!) How to recognize your child's individual (and subtle) signs of nervous system stress
- Developmental Readiness—how to prepare your child for relationships with peers, academic skills and higher-level thinking skills
- Moving out of crisis and focusing on growth—coming up with a plan of action

Date: 3rd Saturday each month

Time: 10:00—11:30 AM
